

Edward L. Lloyd, III, Esq.
August 14, 1948 - August 5, 2023
Champion for the Environment -

Dear Friend,

I'm sad to share the news that at the beginning of this month we lost an incredible champion of Citizens United and our other conservation comrades – Attorney Edward L. Lloyd, III (August 14, 1948 – August 5, 2023) – who was a leading crusader for the environment as well as, most recently, the director of the Columbia Law School Environmental Law Clinic. For over 30 years he also fought the fight with us and supported our quest to see the Holly Farm preserved.

His departure is an incredible loss to the environmental community.

His accomplishments in New Jersey are nothing short of astounding. He was a close confidant for the period of our struggle and I will sorely miss his friendship and advice. Ed also served with CU Board Member Emeritus Leslie Ficcaglia on the NJ Pinelands Commission, and she often spoke of her admiration for his staunch and scholarly actions in defense of its objectives. She noted, "Ed was an inspiration to all of us in the way he could cut through the details and focus on what was really important in preserving the Pinelands. He was such a kind, gentle, but brilliant man and was wonderful to know. My husband Tony and I first met him when we took him and his wife Janine, plus his two-year-old son, up the Manumuskinnong to show him what a treasure we had there, and it was the beginning of a long and very special friendship with them."

In addition Ed took great pleasure in mentoring younger or aspiring lawyers and gave of himself freely in this effort.

This link will take you to a brief memorial biography that Columbia Law School prepared (<https://www.law.columbia.edu/news/archive/memorial-professor-emeritus-edward-lloyd>).

His family's obituary appears below.

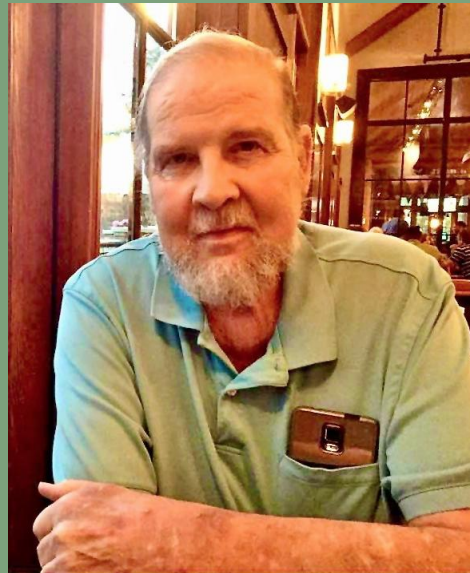

Our condolences go to the Lloyd family and friends.

Sincerely,

Jane Morton Galetto

Champion for the Environment -

An environmental litigator, activist, and scholar, Edward Lungren Lloyd III, passed away Saturday morning, August 5, 2023 just nine days shy of his 75th birthday (1948-2023). Ed was the director of the Environmental Law Clinic at Columbia University Law School from 2000 to 2022, and was the Evan M. Frankel Professor of Environmental Law there. He taught and trained hundreds of law students in the Clinic giving them real-life experience representing non-profit clients advocating for clean water and air, wetlands preservation, endangered species, "smart growth," contaminated site remediation, and better transit options in the National Environmental Policy Act process. Professor Lloyd was also a member of Columbia University's Earth Institute's Practice Committee.

Before joining the Columbia Law School faculty, Ed served for 15 years as the founding director of the Rutgers University Law School Environmental Law Clinic in Newark, where he also supervised students on leading edge cases, establishing several administrative and environmental law precedents. He was previously staff attorney and executive director of the N.J. Public Interest Research Group (PIRG). Ed Lloyd was often invited to testify before Congress and the State Legislature on environmental bills and enforcement matters. His numerous affiliations include being appointed by Governor McGreevey to serve on the New Jersey Pinelands Commission, where he outlasted attempts to replace him for stands taken against incursions to the Pinelands' pristine aquifers; Litigation Review Committee of the Environmental Defense Fund; board member of the Fund for New Jersey; co-founder and co-director of the Eastern Environmental Law Center, the sole public interest environmental law firm in New Jersey; chair of the board of Environmental Endowment, a grant-making institution; and member of the New Jersey Supreme Court Committee on Environmental Litigation (appointed by then Chief Justice Robert Wilentz). He taught environmental law at Judicial College for state court judges.

Prepared at Gilman School in Baltimore, where he won the Princeton Area Alumni math prize, and graduated from Princeton University in 1970 with a degree in chemistry, Ed then attended law school at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. Ed returned to New Jersey and was admitted to the bar in 1974, at which he practiced for almost 50 years.

Ed's love for Princeton University was unbounded. Until the last decade, he rarely missed a Princeton home basketball game, where his father Ed Lloyd, Jr. (Class of 1942) had been captain of the team. He never missed a reunion until 2022. Ed was proud to march in the P-rade (with son Alexander in the "pede"), then relax with classmates and family including sister Pamela Lloyd Coulter (Class of 1972), and before her untimely passing, cousin Barbara Price Krumland (Class of 1975), at Cloister Inn, where Ed lived as an undergrad and was treasurer.

Ed leaves his wife of 41 years, Janine G. Bauer, and two children, son Alexander Edward Lloyd, who graduated from Columbia Law School in 2019 and is a member of the New Jersey and New York bars, and daughter Abigail Elizabeth Lloyd, a social worker at Bellevue Hospital and Northwell Hospital in New York, sister Pamela Lloyd Coulter, Princeton University Class of 1972 (John V. Coulter), sister-in-law Sherry Ziegenbalg, brother-in-law Bruce Bauer (Frances), brother-in-law Jamie D. Bauer, and many cousins, nieces and nephews of the expended Lloyd, Fanget, Driver, Price, Bovino, Wert, and Bauer families for whom he tried to be a role model, and succeeded. Ed was predeceased by his parents, Edward L. Lloyd, Jr. and Catherine Fanget Lloyd, and his brother, Robert G. Lloyd of Baltimore.

Ed will be sorely missed.

A Memorial Service was held 11:00 am on Wednesday, August 16, 2023 at the Nassau Presbyterian Church 61 Nassau Street, Princeton.

Burial in Princeton Cemetery was private.
